Individual (1)

Made with Goodnotes

粉嶺禮賢會中學
Fanling Rhenish Church Secondary School

姓名 Name : Alex
班別 Class : D (7)
科目 Subject : english - Oral
日期 Date :

Hong Kong DSE Oral strategies

· Individual Response

PREP Structure

· Point (Yes / No / Agree / Disagree / Prefer / like ...)

· Reason (The reason why / Because ...)

· Examples (Take me as an examples / For examples)
個人經歷

· Point Conclusion (In conclusion ...)

Vocabulary ↑

立場 ({ To be honest / Personally, I believe } { From my perspective } { I tend to agree that })

補充 ({ In addition } { Furthermore } { On top of that } { More Over })

Made with Goodnotes

轉折 ({ On the other hand } { however } { Nevertheless }

{ Conversely }

說明 ({ For instance 舉個案例 } { A prime example }

{ To illustrate this 去展現 }

總結 ({ All in all } { Therefore } { To sum up })

Made with Goodnotes

HARD "Do you think social media makes people feel more lonely?"

From my perspective, I strongly agree that social media makes people feel more lonely. Platforms like Instagram give us the illusion of being 'connected', but these digital interactions are often superficial and lack the warmth of face-to-face communication. A prime example is how many teenagers spend hours scrolling through influencers' curated feeds. Seeing others post about glamorous holidays triggers a toxic cycle of social comparison — the so-called FOMO — which makes young people feel isolated despite having thousands of followers. Therefore, while social media connects us technologically, it ironically widens the emotional gap between people in reality.

Made with Goodnotes

EASY "Do you like people taking photographs of you?"

To be honest, I actually really enjoy it when people take photographs of me. Taking photos is one of the most effective ways to capture fleeting moments and preserve precious memories with friends and family. For instance, during my recent graduation, my friends and I took tons of pictures. Whenever I feel stressed, looking back at these shots instantly brings a smile to my face. So all in all, I usually feel quite happy and flattered when someone wants to take a photo of me.

Made with Goodnotes